

Is Boystown
the spot to find a hookup?

Time Out's
Jason Heidemann investigates on page 74.

OUR KIND OF TOWN
You'll find more than a few of Lakeview's sex shops near the corner of Roscoe and Halsted Streets.

Lakeview is for lovers

Forget up-and-coming neighborhoods like Logan Square and Bridgeport. If you're looking for steamy hookups, there's only one place to live. By Allyson Byers
Photograph by Dave Rentauskas

Which Chicago neighborhood is having the most sex? While we can't peer into everyone's windows to get the, ahem, hard data, we did employ some statistical know-how—with the help of Metro Chicago Information Center, a nonprofit research and consulting organization—to find out how 20 'hoods stack up against each other when it comes to rolls in the hay. Our findings are based on rankings in nine categories: number of intimate apparel stores; number of sex shops; birth rate; number of waxing salons; percentage of OkCupid users who list casual sex as something they're looking for; number of posts over a given week in Craigslist's Casual Encounters section; number of members using Ashley Madison, a site designed to facilitate extramarital affairs; number of single people; and number of adult entertainment venues, which includes burlesque theaters and strip clubs. We took into account square mileage and total population of each neighborhood.

And the award goes to...Lakeview. Home to nearly ten adult shops and boasting more than 200 Casual Encounter posts on Craigslist from its residents in one week, the neighborhood consistently scored high in all categories. The 'hoods that tallied the lowest totals get the unenviable distinction of being the least sexy places to live. Sorry, Little Italy: Perhaps restaurateur Scott Harris could open a strip club on Taylor Street?

TOP 5 SEXIEST NEIGHBORHOODS

1. Lakeview
2. Wicker Park
3. River North and the Loop (tie)
5. Bucktown

TOP 5 LEAST SEXY NEIGHBORHOODS

1. University Village/Little Italy
2. Pilsen and Hyde Park (tie)
4. Old Town and Lincoln Square (tie)

ASK A MINOR LOCAL CELEBRITY

Damon Williams, comedian

Q Does a guy's taste in porn reflect what he's looking for in a partner?

A I actually have experience with this topic. A lady and I decided to purchase porn, [planning to] both pick a flick and meet at the counter. She asked to see what I picked and snapped because the girls on the cover didn't look like her. Crazy thing, the guys on hers didn't look like me. Porn is fantasy: A person's choice will probably be the complete opposite of you. He wouldn't want to marry the women that do some of those nasty stunts. He just wishes he could join them.

Hear Williams's "Seriously Ignorant News" spot Tuesdays at 5:50am on the nationally syndicated Tom Joyner Morning Show on 106.3 FM.

Nina Chantele, radio host

Q Are Anthony Weiner-style flings and flirtations really cheating?

A Yes! Anytime your man is engaging in behavior that isn't respectful of your relationship—i.e., sexting a random person dirty pictures that should be going to you—it's cheating! Don't believe a guy who says, "It means nothing" to justify his behavior. This is just the beginning of a fantasy that will play out sooner or later. Cut your losses and run in the opposite direction. Fast.—Martina Sheehan

Chantele is on WGCI 107.5 FM weekdays 5–9am, and on 103.5 KISS FM Monday–Saturday 10am–noon. Also catch her weekly gossip segment on ABC 7's Windy City Live Tuesdays 9–10am.